is an 80-acre park located on the original fur trade site on the banks of the Yellow River, 3 miles west of Wisconsin Highway 35 on County Road U.

Folle Avoine (faal a-vwon) means "crazy oats," the voyageurs' term for wild rice.

The Burnett County Historical Society operates the historical park as a non-profit educational facility.

The park includes:

- Visitors Center
- Fur Trade/Indian Museum
- Two reconstructed fur trading posts and Woodland Indian Village
- History Research library
- Amphitheater
- Karlsborg School
- Swedish Kiosk
- Logging Museum
- Blacksmith Shop
- Anderson Cabin
- Gardens
- Cross Country Skiing/Snowshoeing
- Primitive camping areas for events

FAHP is open to the public from Memorial Day Weekend through Labor Day Weekend, Wednesdays through Sundays, 10:00 AM to 4:00 PM.
